Unity developer / Software engineer

About me

I'm a passionate and dedicated student at the International University of Applied Sciences in Berlin, Germany, where I'm pursuing a degree in Software Development. With a strong interest in game development, I've completed several courses on Udemy, focusing on Unity and C#. Over the past few months, I've built a solid foundation in these areas and I have worked on a few projects, including an ongoing 2D RPG game.

Currently, I'm the Creative Director at Aufpet, a company specializing in dog and cat treats and food. In this role, I oversee the creative vision and output for the marketing and creativity departments. My responsibilities include planning marketing campaigns, creating social media strategies, and managing marketing initiatives with realistic timelines.
